IMAARISHASRHR · STRATEGIC COMMS & REFRAMING · PHASE 2

Facilitator Activities Pack

One reinforcement activity for each of the eight Field Guide modules — ready to run in a workshop. Companion to the live Field Guide, where Module 8 carries an interactive Myth → Fact builder participants keep on their own phones.

How to use this. Each module ends in a tool; this pack adds the exercise that makes it stick. Run the activity right after the module's tool. Times are a guide — stretch the debrief if the room is talking. Keep every real example anonymised; no real names, no shaming.

MODULE 1

THE SYSTEM

Map the real machine

Participants map the four forces on a real young woman from their own community, and see why single-dimension fixes fail.

⏱ 25 min | 👥 Groups of 4 → plenary

You'll need: Flip-chart or the back of a Myth & Fact card · One real, anonymised case from the group

1. Each group names one real young woman's situation — no real names.
2. Write her in the centre; around her name the four forces pressing in: patriarchy, culture & shame, religion, disinformation.
3. For each force, write one concrete thing it says or does in this case.
4. Draw arrows wherever one force makes another stronger.

> Debrief: Remove a single force on paper — would she actually be free, or do the others still hold? What does that say about one-message campaigns?

MODULE 2

DISINFORMATION

Prebunk drill

Participants practise spotting the manipulation signals in a real forward and writing a prebunk before the next one lands.

⏱ 30 min | 👥 Pairs → plenary

You'll need: A real SRHR forward from a participant's own WhatsApp (screenshot or retyped) · The four typologies list

1. In pairs, read one real forward. Underline the parts that signal manipulation — urgency, fake authority, fear, 'share before it's deleted'.
2. Name which of the four disinformation typologies it belongs to.
3. Write one short prebunk line that teaches the signal, not just the correction.
4. Swap with another pair; test whether their prebunk would actually make you pause.

> Debrief: What is the difference between correcting a lie and prebunking it — and which one travels further in a WhatsApp group?

MODULE 3

CULTURE & PATRIARCHY

Cost it, then lower it

Participants surface the real costs a woman carries for an SRHR choice, then design supports that lower each cost.

⏱ 25 min | 👥 Groups → plenary

You'll need: Paper in two columns: 'Cost' and 'Support that lowers it'

1. Pick one real choice — using a method, going to the clinic.
2. List every cost she pays: conflict, judgment, safety, secrecy, money, time.
3. For each cost, name one realistic support that lowers it — a private supply, a trusted ally, a respected male voice.
4. Circle the one support your group could actually help put in place.

> Debrief: Did shaming the men appear anywhere on your 'support' list? What actually brought the cost down?

MODULE 4

REFRAMING

Reframe relay

Participants convert a rights-framed message into a health-first reframe for a specific, named audience using the five-part formula.

⏱ 30 min | 👥 Pairs → plenary

You'll need: The five-part formula card · Three 'sector' messages to reframe

1. Each pair takes one rights-framed message and one audience — Tom, Beth, a pastor, youth.
2. Run it through the formula: Value → Bridge → Fact (once) → Messenger → Ask.
3. Say it aloud in the trusted messenger's voice.
4. Read the 'before' and the 'after' to the room; the room votes which they'd actually listen to.

> Debrief: Where did you have to start for your audience to hear you at all — and how far was that from where the sector usually starts?

MODULE 5

WHAT WORKS

Match the room

Participants choose the channel and messenger the evidence backs for a real audience they need to reach.

⏱ 20 min | 👥 Groups → plenary

You'll need: The channel & messenger matrix · A real local audience each group must reach

1. Name the exact audience — older women in your ward, boda riders, Form 4 girls.
2. Pick the channel the evidence backs for them, honestly — radio? WhatsApp? a youth desk? a clip?
3. Pick the messenger they already trust.
4. Name one reason your choice might fail, and a backup.

> Debrief: Which audience in your area is hardest to reach — and is the channel you'd default to actually the one that reaches them?

MODULE 6

THE OPERATING SYSTEM

Build the rota

The team turns the five habits into a running practice by assigning owners and drafting a four-week listening rota.

⏱ 25 min | 👥 Whole team

You'll need: The five habits list · A blank four-week calendar

1. For each of the five habits, name the person who owns it.
2. Draft a four-week listening rota — who scans X, TikTok and WhatsApp each week.
3. Agree what goes into the message library, and who tags it.
4. Set the date and length of the monthly review.

> Debrief: Which habit has no realistic owner right now — and what has to change for it to happen every week?

MODULE 7

MOTHER & AUNTY · I

Rewrite relay

Participants rewrite real warnings they have given or heard, keeping the love and changing what is passed on.

⏱ 30 min | 👥 Pairs → plenary

You'll need: Blank cards · The 'rewrite the warning' example

1. Each person writes down two real warnings they've heard an aunty give — no names.
2. In pairs, rewrite each so it keeps the warmth but opens a door instead of closing it.
3. Name the myth once, kindly; replace it with a new line she could actually say.
4. Read two rewrites to the room.

> Debrief: What made a rewrite still sound like a caring aunty — and not like a lecture or a clinic poster?

MODULE 8

MOTHER & AUNTY · II

Surface and re-card your myths

Participants name the myths they personally carry or hear, write an accurate, kind fact for each, and leave with their own card set.

⏱ 35 min | 👥 Individual → pairs → plenary

You'll need: The Myth & Fact builder in the app (saves to your phone) · The Champion Aunty pledge

1. In the builder below, add each myth you still hear — or once believed yourself.
2. For each, write the fact 'kindly put' — true, and said with love, not shame.
3. In pairs, test one card: would it change your own aunty's mind?
4. Print or save your card set; pick one myth you will stop repeating.

In the app: Module 8 includes a live Myth → Fact builder — participants type each myth they carry and the kind fact that answers it; their card set saves to their own phone and prints as a personal set. Use it for steps 1–2 above.

> Debrief: Which of your own cards was hardest to write — getting the fact right, or saying it without shame?
